

Inspiration from the PICTOPLASMA.

Contour line:

I will be using BLACK contour line, but it won't be visible on every object because I will be using BLACK for a fill color as well.

Characters and shapes:

Characters will be mostly black, except the parts I want to stand out, and make a point. I will be using mostly geometric shapes, because my characters wont look realistic anyway.

Typography:

I will be using SANS SERIF typography, specificly I will be using "Arcade font". "Arcade font" is pixelated font and will suit great with thematics of my story.

Colors:

Colors that I'm going to use are; black, white, red, orange, blue, yellow and green.

Story:

My character will be getting trough his regular day, and he will need help from user to get home safely. User will be able to help him by sending him likes, and battery recharges.

Message:

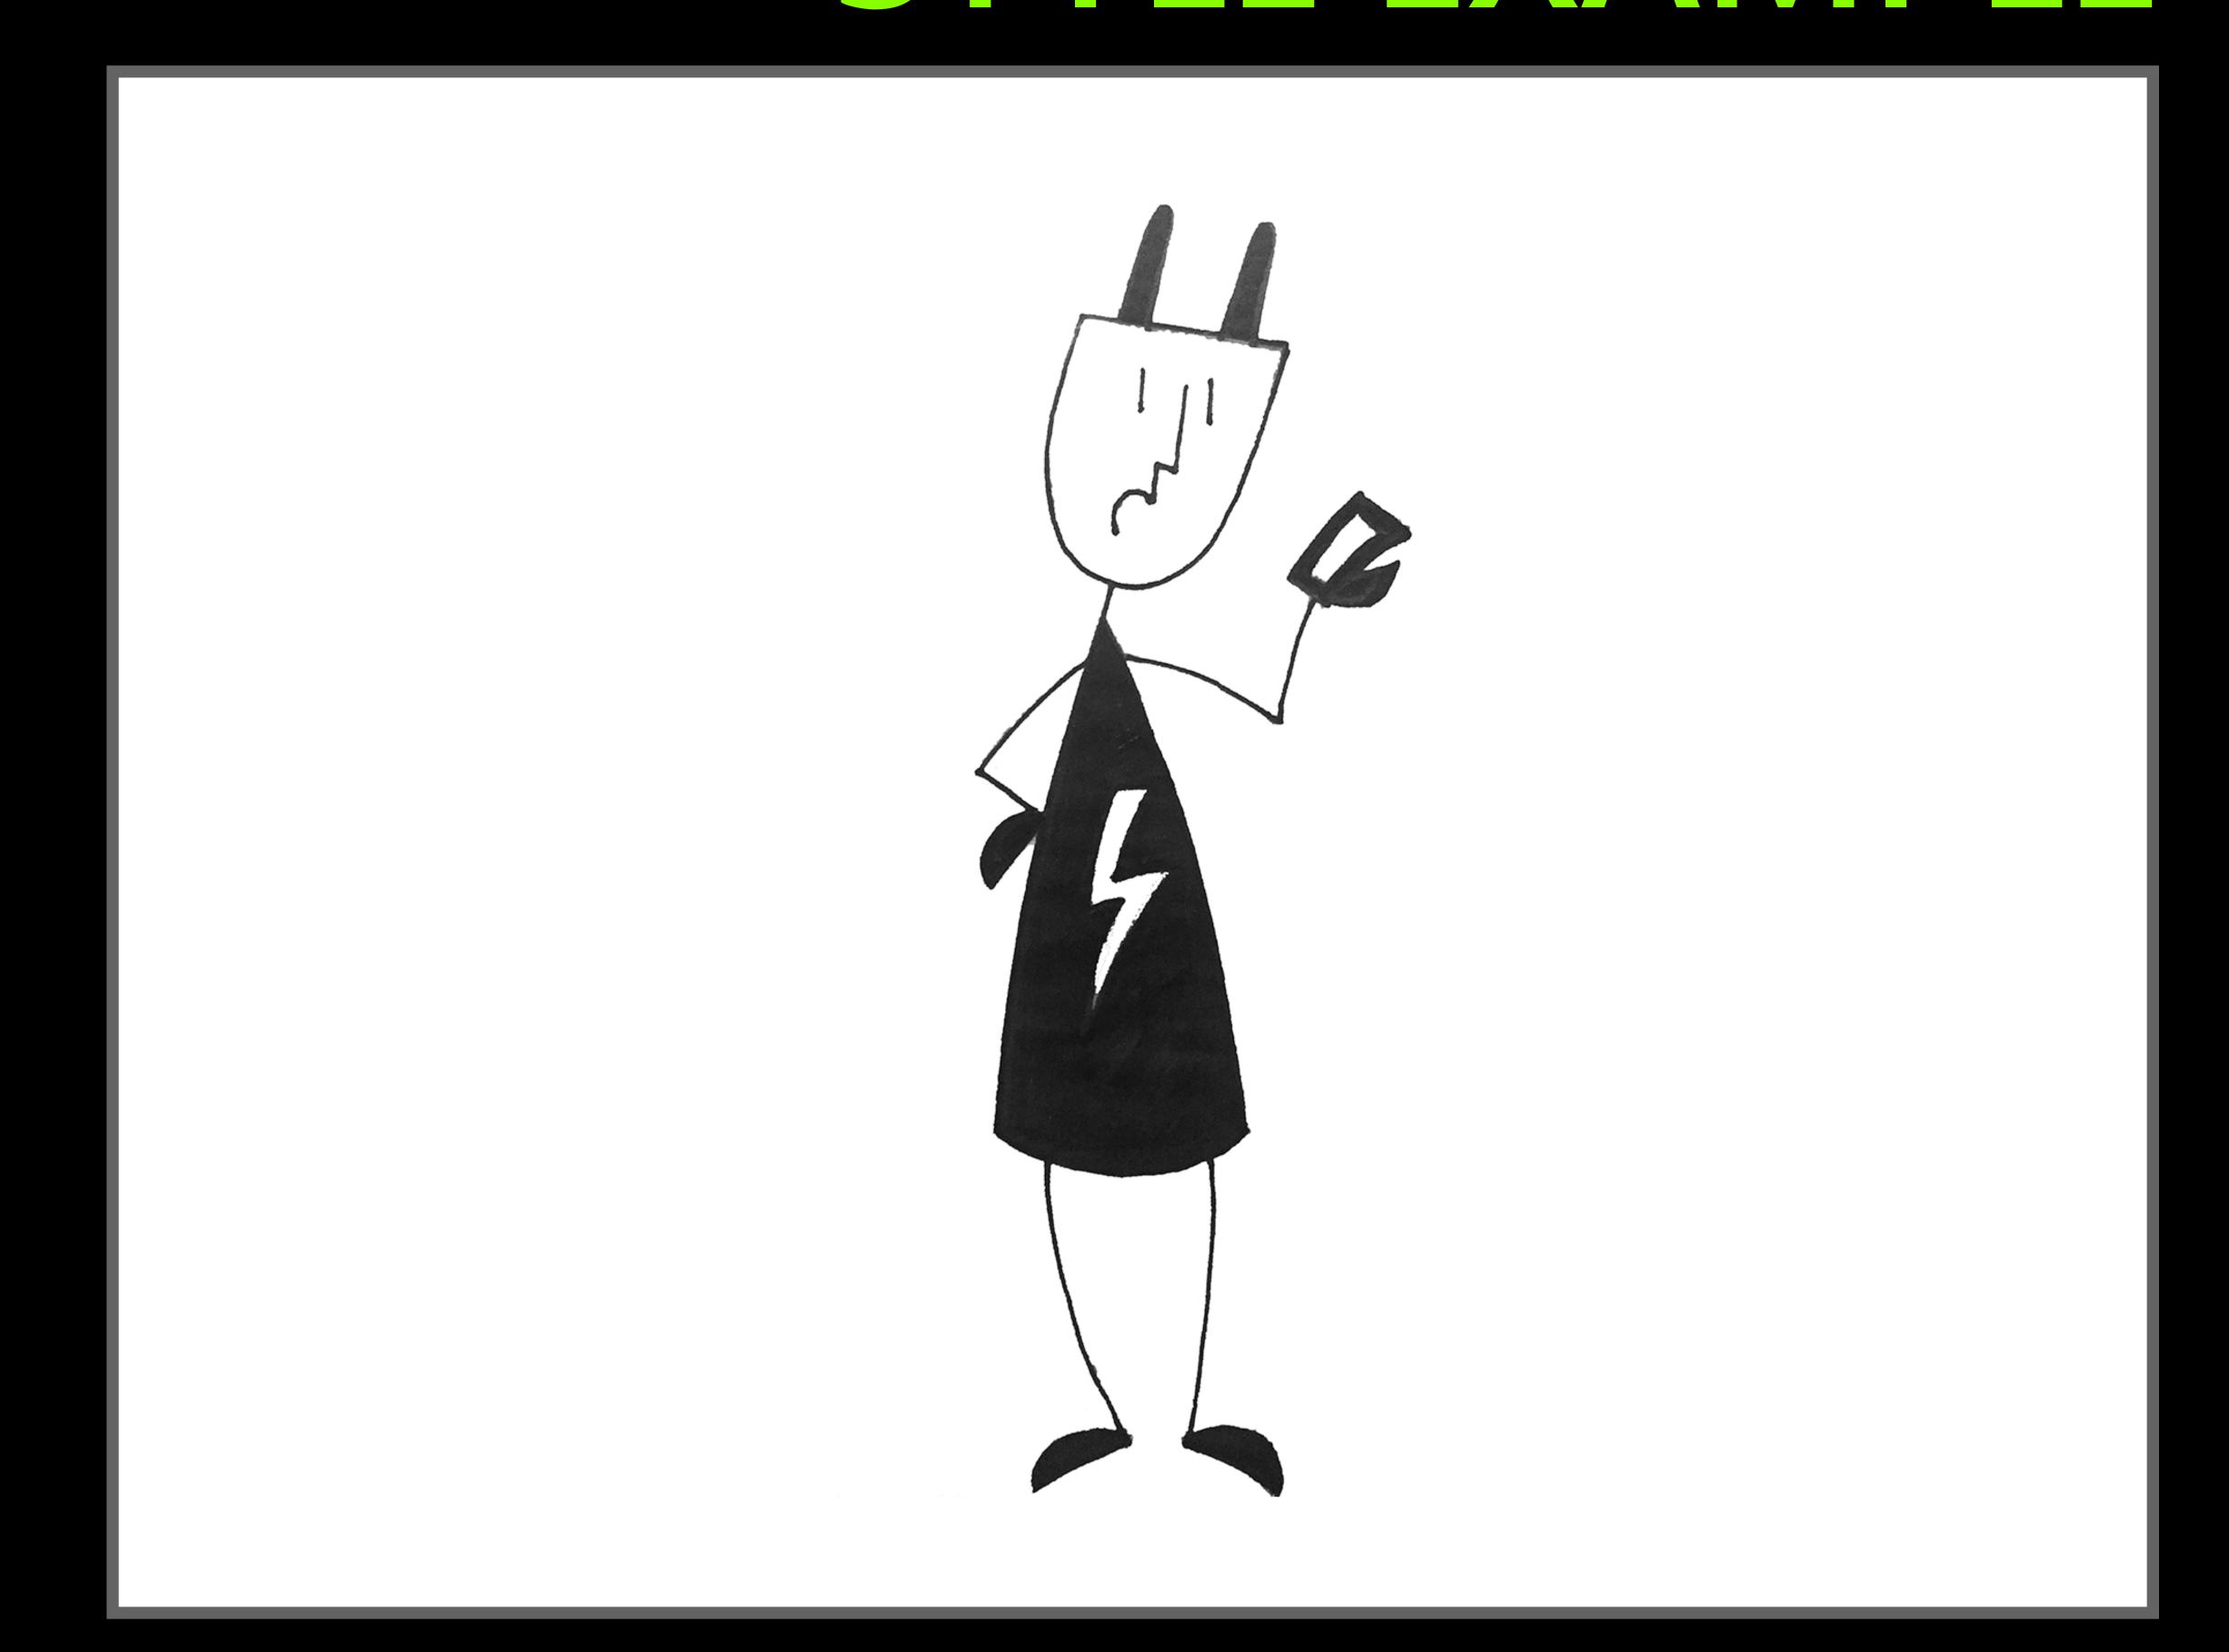

I'll try to demonstrate our addiction to techonology and fast growing trend of "social" networks, that actually made people more unsocial.

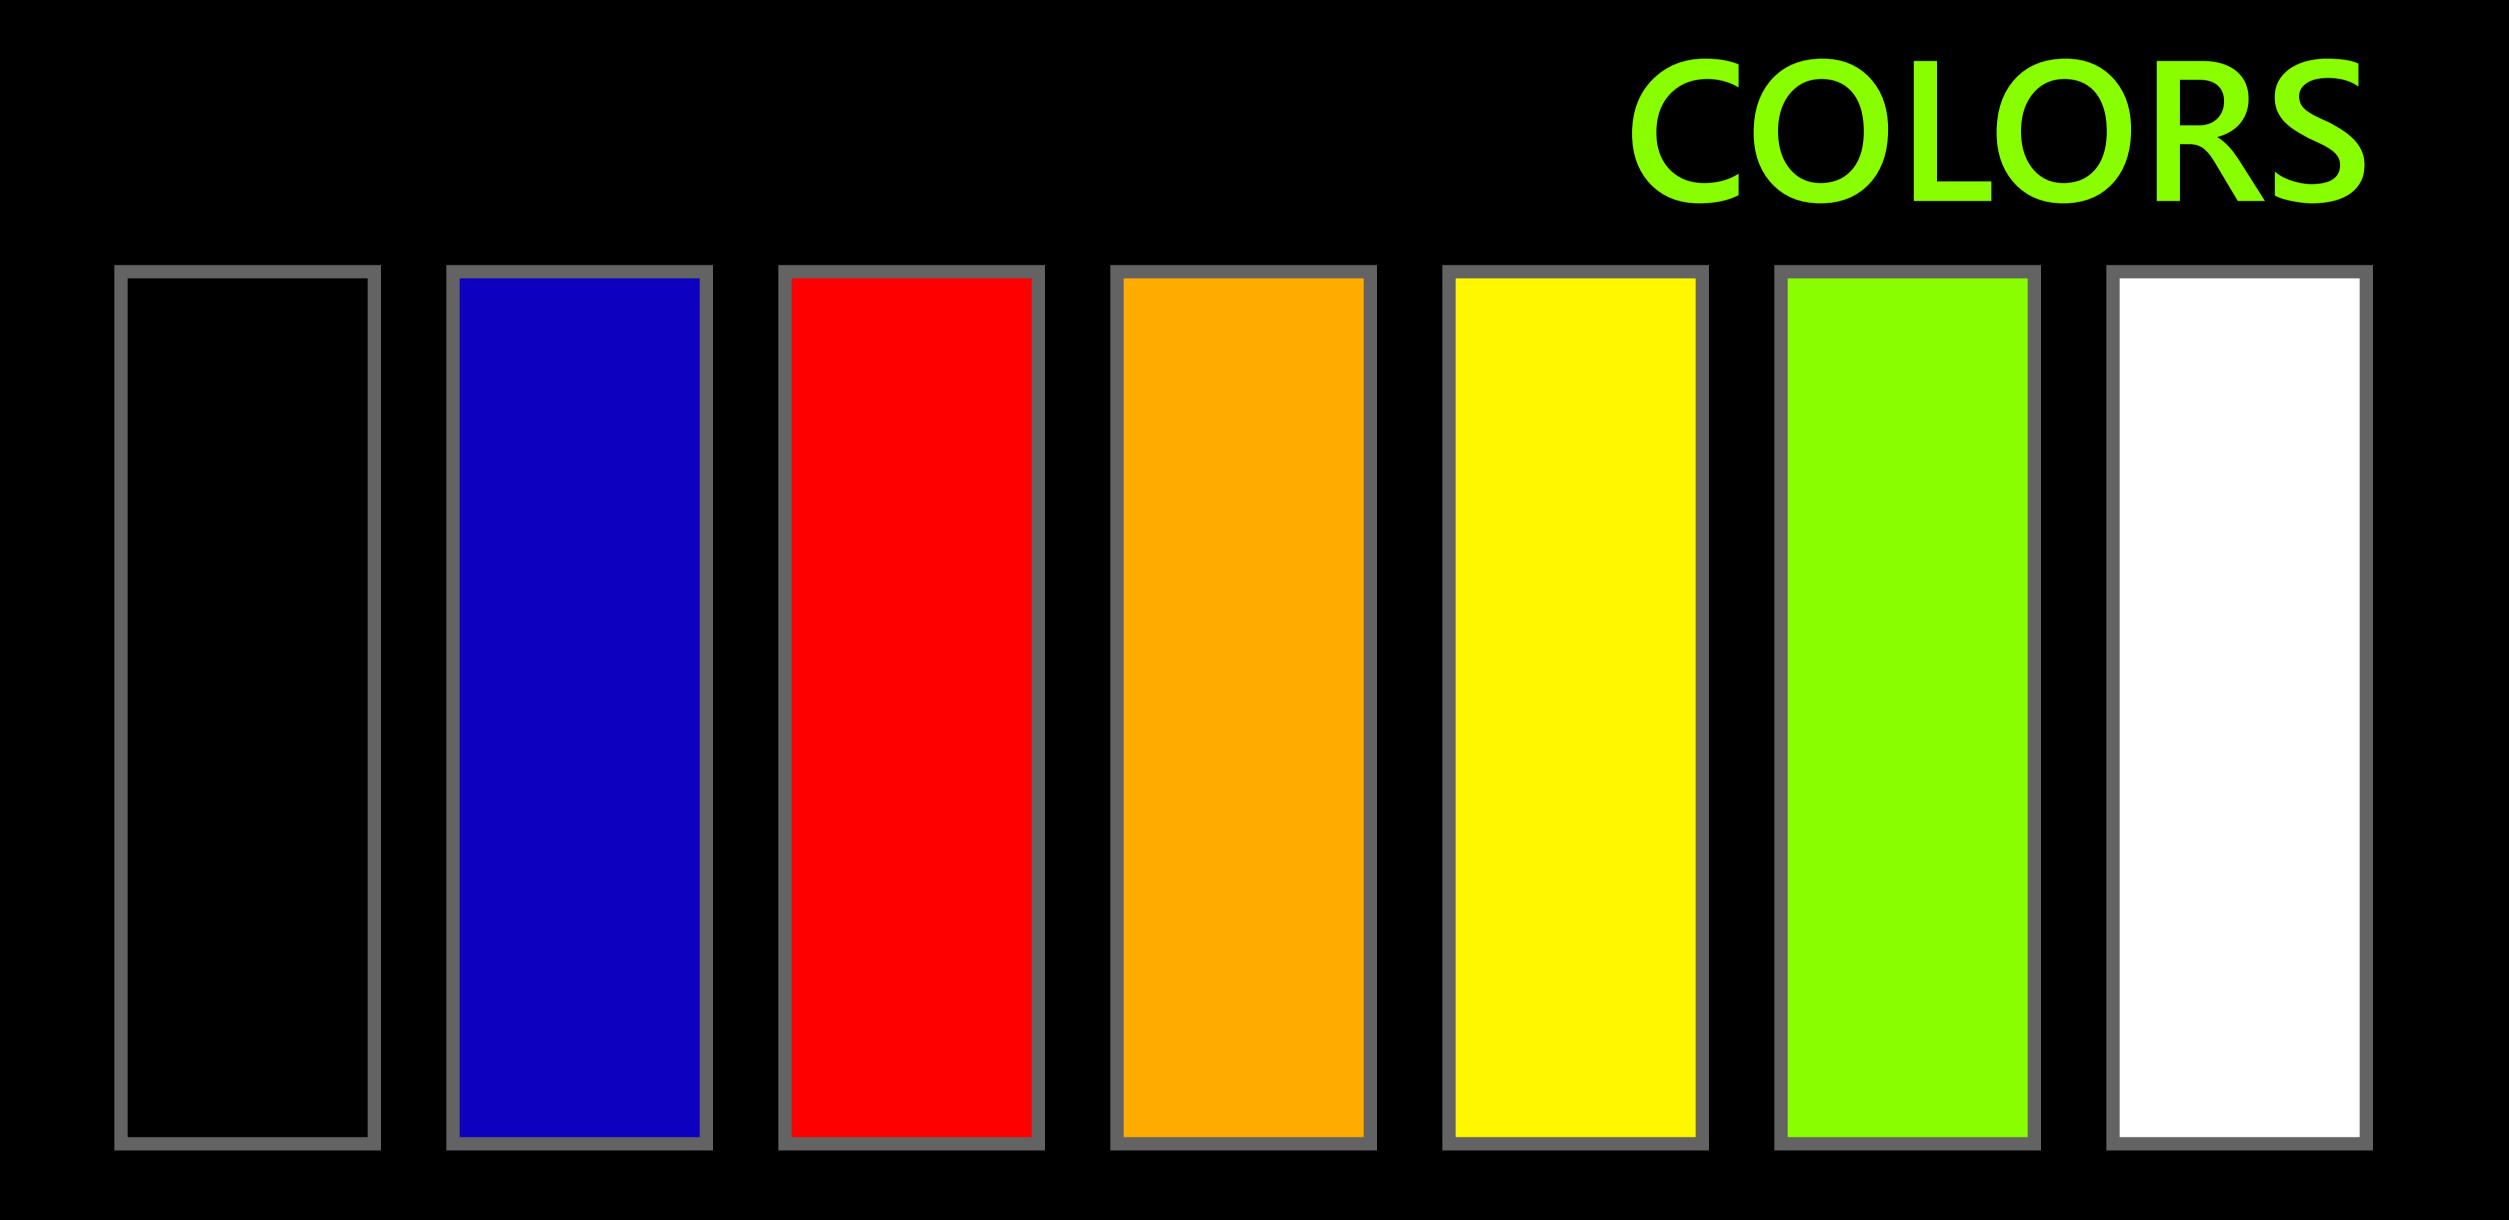

Today It's unaivoidable to use blessing of modern technology, but I feel like we are too addicted to it, and that we are losing as much as we are gaining from it.

Genre:

Not really a horror, but it's a sad story and reality.
